Report of the Supervisor of Schools.

The first year under the new school law is about closing. So radical a change in the management of the schools could not fail to create anxiety on the part of many. The law which went into effect March 1, 1894, was as new to the school board as to others. Because of this the work during the year has been largely experimental. Yet, while mistakes have been made, we consider the year as a whole a success. This is due in great measure to the hearty co-operation of the people, who have manifested a disposition to give the law a fair trial. The school board has as well seconded the Supervisor in his work.

One good result of the law has been the nearer uniformity of school weeks in the various schools of the town. With but few exceptions the scholars have had the privilege of attending school thirty weeks during the past year. Some of these schools have had in years past, but twenty and twenty-two weeks of schooling.

Because of these extra weeks, the schools have during the past year cost a little more than usual. This can be avoided in the future, by uniting schools near each other.

All the schools of the town have been graded during the year, and a course of study introduced. The good results of this are already apparent. The haphazard manner of study has been succeeded by a definite plan of work. Scholars, who at the beginning of the year, could pass a very good examination in arithmetic, and yet could not tell whether they lived in Africa or America, have been equalized in their studies.

Another good result of the grading of the schools, is that every school becomes a feeder of the high school or academy.

Another result of the grade in the near future, will be the presence in our schools of more competent teachers than we have sometimes had. The town of Paris has for too long a time been a training school for young teachers. We have given the experience, while other towns have reaped the benefit. This has been caused, not only by a lack of system, but as well by the fact that the salaries offered, have not been sufficient to attract teachers of experience. Salaries should be increased, not lowered. A good appropriation for schools is an evidence of wisdom on the part of any town.

The aim during the past year has been to secure the best teachers possible for the salaries possible. We have been obliged to hire some inexperienced teachers. Some of these have developed into first class instructors.

Some necessary changes have been made in the text books. The old grammars have been succeeded by Hyde's Language Lessons, and the readers, by the Heart of Oak, and Nature series; while the Stickney First Reader has been introduced into the primary classes.

established to need any words of ours. Sufficient to say that the school has maintained its high grade. Miss Briggs gave the best of satisfaction.

No. 2.—Grammar.—Miss Hattie Hooper has taught the school throughout the year. The school has made good progress under this most efficient teacher.

No. 2.—Intermediate.—Summer term. Miss Julia Morton, teacher. Good work was done.

Fall and winter terms taught by Mrs. Mabel Pike. Mrs. Pike is a teacher of experience, and the school under her charge, has made good progress.

No. 2.—Primary.—Miss Emma Shurtleff has taught through the entire year, and it is hoped that she may have charge of the school for many years to come. Her methods are good, and the school is ever interested, and interesting.

Porter Street.—Miss Hattie Leach has also taught in the same school throughout the year. Miss Leach has also the happy faculty of interesting her scholars in their work.

Pleasant Street.—Summer and fall terms were taught by Miss Olive Stuart. These were Miss Stuart's first terms. The school made good progress. We regretted her decision to lay down the work at the close of the fall term.

The winter term was taught by Miss Eva Richardson. Miss Richardson has maintained the reputation established in other years in this same school.

No. 3, WEBBER.—The school has been under the care of Miss Helen King for the entire year. Miss King has been the right teacher for the place. The school shows the result of faithful work, both by teacher and scholars.

No. 4, BISCOE.—Summer term, Miss Lena Tuell, teacher. The school did well. Fall and winter terms, Miss Hattie Clifford, teacher. Miss Clifford has taught a number of terms, and always with success. She is a painstaking, faithful teacher.

No. 5, PORTER.—Summer term taught by Miss Amy Harding. The school was small. The teacher deserved a better school. Very good work was accomplished. For the fall and winter terms the scholars were sent to another school, the Supervisor not deeming it profitable to maintain a school here.

No. 6, WEST PARIS.—Summer term, Mrs. Mabel Pike, teacher. The school was found to be in a chaotic state, and was left somewhat more in order. Both teacher and scholars tried to make the term a success.

Fall and winter terms taught by Mr. Earle Bessey. Good work has been accomplished. Mr. Bessey is a good teacher.

No. 7, HALL.—Summer term, Mrs. Ida Penley teacher. Progress fair.

Fall and winter terms taught by Miss Rose Starbird. As good work as possible, with so small a school, was accomplished. The winter term was closed at the end of the eighth week, the Supervisor not deeming it profitable to continue the school with one scholar. This school ought to be discontinued.

No. 8, KING.—Mrs. H. M. Tucker has taught throughout the year. The school has done good work. The teacher is faithful, and interested in her work.

No. 9, HILL.—Grammar.—The grammar school has been under the efficient care of Mrs. Eva Edgecomb, preceptress of Paris Hill Academy. Mrs. Edgecomb has had experience in the schools of Auburn, and the training there received has manifested itself in faithful work here. The school has made the best of progress.

No. 9.—Primary.—Miss Andrews has been retained during the year. As we said in our report of last year, it will be but the part of wisdom to retain so excellent a teacher as long as possible.

No. 10, PARTRIDGE.—Summer term taught by Miss Hattie Royal. Miss Royal sustained her past reputation as a good teacher.

Fall term. Miss Ivy Richardson, teacher. This was Miss Richardson's first school. She labored hard to make the school a success, and succeeded. She gives evidence of possessing great ability as a teacher.

Winter term. Miss Margaret Murch, teacher, is still in session.

No. 11, STEARNS.—The scholars belonging in this school have been sent to to the Hollow school for the entire year.

No. 12, HARBOR.—Summer and fall terms taught by Miss Emily Burgess. Miss Burgess has had experience as a teacher. She is an excellent instructor.

Winter term taught by Mr. Alton T. Emery. This was Mr. Emery's first school. Good, faithful work was accomplished.

No. 13, TUBBS.—Summer and fall terms taught by Miss Lillie Shaw. Miss Shaw did good work. The school made good progress.

Winter term, taught by Miss Terrill, is still in session. The school appeared well when visited.

No. 14, MOUNTAIN.—Summer term. Mr. A. C. Whitman, teacher. The school was not the success we hoped it would be.

Fall and winter terms taught by Miss Maud Carter. Miss Carter will make one of our best teachers with a little more experience. These terms were successful.

No. 15, WHITTEMORE.—Summer term taught by Miss Dora Colby. Very good work was accomplished.

Fall and winter terms taught by Miss Amy Harding. The fall term was a success, the school doing excellent work. During the winter term the lower classes did good work. The term for the upper classes, was a failure, and this through no fault of the teacher.

No. 16, TUELL.—Summer term, Miss Persis Childs, teacher. The school did good work.

Fall and winter terms taught by same teacher, although under different names. In the fall the teacher was Miss Lena Tuell; in the winter Mrs. Lena Tuell Chase. The school did good work. Mrs. Chase is a teacher of experience.

No. 17, FORBES.—Summer term taught by Miss Mary Stone. The teacher lacked force and discipline. This school was not all that might be desired.

Fall term taught by Miss Bessie Colby. The term was not a success.

The winter term is still in session under the care of Miss Lillie Shaw. Good work is being done.

No. 18, HOLLOW.—Miss May Perkins has taught throughout the year. The fact that Miss Perkins has taught four terms in succession in the same school, is recommendation enough. The school through the year has done good work. The teacher has won the love and awakened the interest of the scholars.

No. 19, TRAP CORNER.—Summer term taught by Miss Ida Abbott. Miss Abbott is a faithful teacher. This school, though a difficult one in many respects, did good work, and presented a good appearance when visited.

Fall and winter terms under the charge of Miss Julia Morton. Miss Morton has made a success of these terms. She has labored hard.

No. 20, SNOW'S FALLS.—Summer term taught by Miss Hattie Clifford; fall term by Miss Katherine Ellis; and the winter term by Miss Emily Burgess. Each teacher did as good work as possible with so small a school. This school should be discontinued, and the scholars sent to the Hollow school.
